Funding, source, dates

The group benefited from the grant of the project "Musical Development in Early Childhood and Infancy" (PTDC/EAT/68361/2006) till 30/11/2011. Besides the financial support of this project, the group has benefited from the FCT's pluriannual funding of CESEM as a whole and one doctoral grant.

The group has also benefited from a grant from Fundação Calouste Gulbenkian to the project Opus Tutti – Artistic Practices on the creation of social and educational roots – This is a four years project in collaboration with Companhia de Música Teatral and LAMCI; 54.400 € of funding for 2011.

Objectives & Achievements

Objectives

The main goals of the group were to establish the material conditions to pursue research on communication and musical development in infancy and childhood. (We were allowed to buy equipment that was needed for video observation with funding from FCT project "Observer – Noldus").

The approval of two new projects (one in cooperation with Companhia de Música Teatral, another one in partnership with Vrije University) helped to consolidate the philosophy of the group which aims to cross the paths between science and arts and the paths of academic knowledge and social intervention.

Future Research

Objectives

Future research should implement the philosophy of the group, which articulates Research, Training, Artistic Creation and Intervention in the Community. This new paradigm will be applied in the project devoted to art in infancy as a mediator of social and educational development in a disfavored Lisbon's nursery. This is being done in cooperation with Companhia de Música Teatral through the financial support from Gulbenkian Foundation.

We aim to pursue our collaboration with Vrije University. Both institutions are finding ways to apply objective criteria to observe infants and children in the arts for infancy context. This is an innovative approach that crosses paths between arts and science and we aim to consolidate this new work paradigm.

We aim to invest more energy researching on the therapeutic effects of music.

A great concern refers to the maintenance of two young researchers that were allowed by Ministry of Education to dedicate exclusively to the research that was carried in LAMCI under the Project Musical Development in Infancy and Childhood (PTDC/EAT/68361/2006). In our opinion, there was a great investment in the specialized training of these two teachers and it is very important that FCT helps to find a way that Ministry of Education allows them to pursue their unique research in LAMCI. Otherwise, the great investment that was done on their very specialized training is thrown away.

In resume, we aim to consolidate our team, trying to find ways to provide their exclusive dedication. The fact that the most part of our team are teachers represents some difficulties at the moment because we need people that can work in a more focused way in full time.

Main Achievements

The main achievements of 2011 (besides the relevant publications that are mentioned in this report) was the implementation of Gulbenkian project Opus Tutti. This was a very important step on the consolidation of the group philosophy, conciliating Research, Professional Training, Artistic Creation and Community Intervention in our way of working. The social impact of this project is documented at <http://vimeo.com/35249885>

A Colloquium about Arts for Infancy and Human Development gathered professional with different backgrounds who aims to develop good social and artistic practices that can contribute for the improvement of full human development and well-being in society through arts in early childhood.

The partnership with Vrije University and the submission and the approval of an application to the Royal Flemish Academy of Belgium for Science and the Arts was also relevant output of the group.

The philosophy of the group was fully expressed in this event and remained through the initiatives that were organized along the year. Please see the report below. The activities that were organized demonstrate how we continue to work towards new models of work connecting Music through the paths of Education and Therapy.

Papers in international colloquia: 11; in national conferences: 7.

Funding, source, dates

This research group has benefited in 2011 from the FCT's strategic project funding of CESEM as a whole, 3 post-doctoral grants (FCT) and 4 doctoral bursaries (FCT).

Two collaborative research projects hosted by CESEM and based in this research group have been in progress during the year:

1. "Marcos Portugal: his work and its dissemination" (PTDC/EAT-MMU/099243/2008) – begun January 2010. Total FCT funding 100,521.00 Euros, of which nothing was received in 2011.

Members of the group involved:

David Cranmer (investigator responsible), Alberto Pacheco, António Jorge Marques, Ricardo Bernardes, Luiz Alves da Silva, Manuela Oliveira (research assistant), Maria Catarina Nunes (research assistant)

2. "Música vocal luso-brasileira nos séculos XVIII e XIX" – bilateral project (CAPES/FCT) with the Universidade Estadual de Campinas (Unicamp), begun January 2010. Total FCT funding 10,000.00 Euros, of which 5,000.00 Euros was received in 2011.

Members of the group involved:

David Cranmer (investigator responsible), Alberto Pacheco, António Jorge Marques, Ricardo Bernardes, Luiz Alves da Silva, Rodrigo Teodoro de Paula, Marcos Magalhães.

Members of other groups in CESEM involved in this project:

Lúisa Cymbron, Gabriela Cruz, Cristina Cota, Andréa Teixeira.

Objectives & Achievements

Objectives

The principal aims of the group are: 1) to conduct original research into European music history chiefly of the 18th and 19th centuries, with particular emphasis on music in Portugal, Brazil and other countries with which they have had significant interchange; 2) to support graduate studies in music in Portugal; 3) to disseminate knowledge on the music that the group researches, and to encourage the edition and recording of this repertoire, as well as performance activity.

This was the first full year of the present group, so there was an overriding concern to establish a dynamic, through regular meetings either for talks or to discuss business. To help focus the group's very varied interests and work patterns (in artistic production as well as in musicology), we felt it important to organise a scientific event that also included a performance element.

Areas of interest that we specifically aimed to explore in 2011 include: Musical edition of opera, issues of Patrimony (inventorying, cataloguing, digitalisation of manuscript sources), the music of David Perez, vocal and instrumental music in Portugal and Brazil, especially of the 18th and 19th centuries, and performance issues relating to these repertoires.

Objectives for group projects were:

1. "Marcos Portugal: his work and its dissemination." The principal aim was to prepare for the 250th anniversary of the composer's birth in 2012, through marketing our editions for potential performance, fixing events (conference, exhibitions) and taking the necessary steps to guarantee various publications. Within this we aimed specifically to edit one opera completely and advance substantially on two more with a view to potential productions in 2012, as well as the composer's own arrangements and compositions for the music lessons of Their Royal Highnesses (Crown Prince Pedro and the Princesses Maria Isabel, Maria Francisca de Assis and Isabel Maria). Another objective was to prepare a list of text incipits for the recitatives and sung numbers from all of the composer's Italian operas.

2. "Música vocal luso-brasileira nos séculos XVIII e XIX." We aimed to continue our contacts with our partner, Unicamp, to mark a presence at the annual conference of ANPPOM, at Uberlândia, Brazil, and to continue personal research projects within the scope of the project title.

Further objectives still were aimed at further increasing internationalization, on the one hand, through a greater presence at conferences abroad and the internationalization of locally held conferences (e.g. the Perez conference in October), and, on the other, through the network Caravelas – Study Group for the History of Luso-Brazilian, organized by members of the present Research Group (though open to the research community in general), through increasing membership and other initiatives. With a view to improving communication within the present group and providing mutual support, we also aimed to have regular presentations of work in progress by group members, for discussion aimed at encouraging positive criticism.

The Future

2012 will be a particularly busy year for the Marcos Portugal project, leading to considerable output in various forms, in what is its final year. It will also be the final year of the joint project with Unicamp. Caravelas will be holding various events in February 2012. The Group will have to define objectives and strategies in other areas for the coming years. Among the objectives for the next few years, however, will be to raise the number of articles published in international peer-reviewed journals, as well as to publish more full-length books, both nationally and internationally.

Main Achievements

All of the objectives set out for the group research projects were achieved completely or largely, among which certain items merit specific mention. The conference "David Perez (1711-1778) e a música da sua época", took place at the Museu de Aveiro, on 21-22 October, thanks to the local intervention of Mário Trilha. 4 of the 19 papers were given by Portuguese nationals, the remainder by international speakers, 10 of which came to Portugal specially for the conference. 6 members of the present group took part. The conference also included a concert, involving principally members of the group.

The Marcos Portugal project concentrated less on immediate production than on preparing for the 250th anniversary in 2012. Nevertheless, it did complete critical editions of the two 1-act operas O basculho de chaminé (for production at the São Carlos Theatre in March 2012) and Quem busca lá fica tosquiado (originally intended for a production in Brazil in 2012, but postponed to Spring 2013). Substantial advances were made with the critical editions of La morte di Semiramide and L'oro non compra amore, both of which will be completed in 2012, as well as the repertoire of music for their Royal Highnesses, which proved to be a much larger corpus than expected (more than 60 pieces in libraries in 3 countries). The list of operatic text incipits was close to completion at the year end and should be published online during March 2012.

In the bilateral Luso-Brazilian project there were meetings of members of the two research teams in both Lisbon and Campinas, and 3 members of the CESEM team spoke at the ANPPOM conference at Uberlândia. Caravelas held its annual symposium on 16 September, continued to increase its membership, and made preparations for its first international Congress "A Língua Portuguesa em Música", its first composition prize competition and its first "Caravelas Music Week", in February 2012. In Funchal, Madeira, Paulo Esteireiro organised the 2nd Regional Congress on Artistic Education on 8-9 September, as well as the one-day event "5 Olhares sobre o Património Musical Madeirense" (6 May) and talks by local and outside speakers. 4 talks were given internally or within the joint CESEM-INET series "Música em Contexto", either by our own permanent or visiting members.

Important work was done in organising, inventorying and photographic digitalisation of 3 music manuscript collections, in all cases supervised by David Cranmer. Rui Magno Pinto, as a short-term FCT-bursary holder, undertook this task with the Filipe de Sousa collection, Alcaíça, under the terms of the agreement between CESEM and the Fundação Jorge Álvares. Various members of the group worked on the collection of theatrical scores and parts at the Teatro Nacional Dona Maria II, under the terms of an agreement between CESEM and the Theatre. Carlos Ferreiro and David Cranmer completed work at the Santuário de Nossa Senhora da Conceição, Vila Viçosa, begun in 2009 at the invitation of the then priest-in-charge, Pe. Mário Tavares de Oliveira.

Other output included: 1 book published internationally, organisation of 1 book published nationally, 2 chapters in a book, 3 articles in peer-reviewed journals (2 international, 1 national); 5 essays in international proceedings, 2 in national; Caravelas again produced 4 Newsletters and commissioned a new interface for its biographical dictionary. This should become operational in March 2012, when further entries will be added. As for publication of music scores, there was 1 international critical edition, 2 national editions (one critical, the other a critical facsimile edition), and non-commercial critical editions of 3 operas and more than 50 smaller works, many destined for commercial publication during 2012.

PhD theses: 1 (Mário Trilha, who applied successfully to a post-doc grant within CESEM, starting January 2012); master's dissertations: 1 (Carlos Ferreiro). Participations in international conferences by invitation (including 1 key-note speaker): 4; in national conferences: 4. In international conferences with calls for papers: 22 (12 at international conferences in Portugal, 10 abroad); in national conferences 9, of which 7 at the Encontro Nacional de Investigação sobre Música, at Porto in November.

Luiz Alves da Silva was awarded "Nikolaus Harnoncourt Cultural Prize" of the Canton of Zurich (Switzerland), for the dissemination of the Luso-Brazilian repertoire in Switzerland.

Artistic production is also an important part of this Research Group's output. There were over 60 participations in concerts, including the newly-formed ensemble "Academia dos Renascidos", partially involving members of the present group, which aims to bring unknown Portuguese and Brazilian repertoire to the public, especially works discovered and edited by its members.

Funding, source, dates

This research group was partly funded by the strategic project for 2011. One full-time researcher is under contract under the Ciência 2007 programme. One researcher holds a post-doctoral grant (SFRH/BPD/46196/2008). Two bursary holders were recently hired within the project on Musical comedy (FCT). Three researchers, and three students are team members in the research project "Teatro para Rir: Comédia Musical em teatros de língua portuguesa (1849-1900)" (PTDC/EAT_MMU/098104/2008) – begun October 2010. Total FCT funding 49,860.00 Euros. There were no transfers in 2011.

Objectives & Achievements

Objectives

The objectives of the group regarding 2011 were to further research and graduate training on Music in the Modern Period, providing a platform for sharing work in progress and assisting and supporting all efforts regarding dissemination of research, internationally and nationally. To this end the group has established an ongoing forum of discussion geared specially to the publication of new texts. Members have been actively encouraged to participate in international conferences and symposia, and the principal investigator organized and successfully proposed during the 2011 two themed sessions focusing on new research produced within the group for one major national conference and one major international conference in music.

In 2011 five aspects were considered to be research priorities: 1) reinforcement of publications and, more specifically, of publications in peer-reviewed venues; 2) national publications on music, disseminating the work developed within the group in Portuguese; 3) support for the collective research project «Musical comedy in Portuguese Speaking Theaters 1849-1910»; 4) collaboration with other national research centres promoting the study of music and participation in research teams producing new investigation that is germane to the group; 4) consolidation of the group's internationalization (including communications in major international colloquia, service in international societies of music and musicology, peer-review for international journals, membership in international consulting boards, scientific evaluations, service to the community); 5) support for graduate studies in the area of research of the group.

Main themes of research that occupied us in 2011 were: 1) the study of nineteenth-century musical comedy in Lisbon, Oporto and Rio de Janeiro, 2) the study of the social history of nineteenth-century instrumental music in Lisbon; 3) the history of coral music in Portugal, 4) virtuosity and virtuosos in nineteenth-century Europe; 4) opera and recording technology in the 1920s to the 1940s; 5) music and film technology in Portugal in the 1930s; 6) the culture and repertoires of nineteenth-century opera; 7) opera and technology during the nineteenth-century.

Main Achievements

1) Publications. 1 article in an international peer-reviewed journal; 2 articles in a national peer-reviewed journal; 1 article in an international volume of conference proceedings (Brazil). These texts on 19th-century Portuguese Opera and Instrumental Music are representative of the most recent research by members of the group. Other publications, scheduled to appear in 2011, included 1 volume of conference proceedings, 2 articles in peer-reviewed journals, 2 essays in edited volumes (Peter Lang, Eastman UP), 3 conference proceedings, 2 encyclopedia and dictionary entries. These were held by unexpected publishing delays.

2) Projects: «Musical Comedy in Portuguese Language Theaters in the Nineteenth-century», Gabriela Cruz (PI), was launched in October 2010. Results were presented in national and international in 2011 and will continue in 2012. One Ph. D. Thesis and one masters thesis pursued within the framework of the project will be defended in 2012. Another master's thesis project began in November 2011.

Francesco Esposito has received a post-doctoral fellowship for the project "O tour concertístico no século XIX: Portugal como etapa das tournées dos concertistas estrangeiros e as experiências no estrangeiro dos músicos portugueses", currently underway.

Projects external to CESEM: Francesco Esposito and Gabriela Cruz are researchers in the project "The Study of Instrumental Music in Portugal: 1755-1834" ["Estudos de Música Instrumental em Portugal: 1755 – 1834"] (PTDC/EAT-MMU/104206/2008), UnIMeM (Unidade de Investigação em Música e Musicologia) da Universidade de Évora. Maria José Artiaga a researcher in the project "Music in-between: the 'orfeonismo' movement and choral singing in Portugal (1880-2012)" (PTDC/EAT- MMU/117788/2010), Instituto de Etnomusicologia - Centro de Estudos em Música e Dança UNL/UTL/UA.

3) Colloquia. Organization of the panel "Musical Comedy in Nineteenth-century Portugal," successfully proposed to SPIM and held at the Encontro Nacional de Investigação em Música, Oporto 25-27 November, 2011. Proposal, since accepted, for a panel on the same topic to be held at the Conference on Nineteenth-century Music, Edinburgh 2012.

4) Papers: Members of the group presented four (4) papers in international colloquia (two with call for papers in Italy and in Brazil, two by invitation at Tufts U. and UC Berkeley, US), eight (8) papers in national colloquia (with Call for papers), two papers by invitation at Instituto Superior Técnico, Lisbon.

5) International prizes:

Francesco Esposito was awarded the 5th edition of the Liszt Prize (Fondazione Istituto Liszt de Bolonha) with the essay «Liszt al rovescio»: la difficile relazione del pianismo portoghese di metà Ottocento con i modelli stranieri.

6) International Service:

Gabriela Cruz was chairman of the Robert Stevenson Committee for the best publication in Iberian and Latin American Music, of the American Musicological, was peer-reviewer for the Cambridge Opera Journal, and served as a referee of the European Science Foundation, Exploratory Workshops programme. Luísa Cymbron is a member of the consulting board of the Journal of the Royal Music Association.

7) National Service:

Maria José Artiaga is a member of two evaluation commissions of the Agência A3ES which accredits degrees in Portuguese institutions of higher education. She has been nominated member of a study commission on "Orquestra Geração by the Ministry of Education in 2011 (Despacho n.º 7307/2010 de 27 de Abril de 2010). Researchers of the group chaired 6 sessions in two national conferences in 2012. Members chaired 6 sessions in scientific events.

Graduate education Researchers of the group lecture in the masters program and the Ph. D. Program in Musicology at the FCSH, teaching and co-teaching research seminars, advising thesis, and serving in project and thesis defense juries. Luísa Cymbron taught the Seminar in History of Portuguese Music in 2011.

Various Master and Ph. D. theses are ongoing, advised by researchers in the group. One thesis directed by Joaquim Carmelo Rosa was successfully defended at the Instituto Piaget in Almada in 2011.

Funding, source, dates

Funding, source, dates

This research group has benefited in 2011 from the FCT's pluriannual funding of CESEM as a whole, from the Ciência 2008 programme (one senior research fellow), two post-doctoral grants (FCT) and one doctoral bursary (FCT).

The research project «Jorge Peixinho's Chamber Music – Critical Edition» [PTDC/EAT-MMU/113714/2009], coordinated by Francisco Monteiro, is funded by FCT, and started in March 2011. It has a total budget of 61.505,00 € (annual transfer: 32.226,00€). One bursary (stuff) was hired in 2011.

The collaborative research project «Kinetic controller driven adaptive and dynamic music composition systems» [UTAustin/CD/0052/2008] – involving the UT Austin, INESC (Porto), Casa da Música (Porto) and the company Y Dreams (begun in 2009) continued (Team-member: Tomás Henriques). No transfers in 2011.

Objectives & Achievements

Objectives

Including composers, performers and artistic-researchers, this research group aims for an interdisciplinary dimension of research, and for the development of a wider artistic, conceptual and epistemological debate focusing on contemporary music, performance as creative practice, and musical experimentation in general.

In order to achieve these main goals, special attention is given to: a) the organization of international symposia on relevant composers (e.g. Emmanuel Nunes); b) the publication of texts written by composers and performers; c) the preparation of critical editions of relevant Portuguese contemporary composers (e.g. Jorge Peixinho); d) contributions to the debate on electronic music and the creation of electronic music pieces and devices (given the opportunities offered by the Laboratório de Informática Musical); e) the development of a discussion around the emerging paradigm of «Artistic Research»; f) the establishment of an ongoing forum of discussion and debate, enhanced by meetings of the whole group; g) the participation of group members in international symposia, as well as (i) the collaboration with foreign institutions (internationalization), including active consultancy.

In 2011 five topics were considered as priorities: 1) Reinforcement of publications and, more specifically, of publications in peer-reviewed journals; 2) starting of the research project «Jorge Peixinho's Chamber Music – Critical Edition»; 3) organization of colloquia, especially an international Symposium celebrating Emmanuel Nunes' 70th Birthday; 4) consolidation of the joint publication series with Casa da Música; 5) consolidation of the group's internationalization (including communications in major Colloquia and active membership in international boards).

Main Achievements

1) Publications. In 2011 eight (8) articles were published in international peer-reviewed periodicals. Written by four researchers (António Salgado, Ivan Moody, Nancy Lee Harper and Paulo de Assis) these articles display a rich variety of research areas, ranging from Performance Studies (António Salgado, Nancy Lee Harper) to Music Philosophy (Paulo de Assis) and contemporary Church Music (Ivan Moody). In addition, Nancy Lee Harper published six (6) reviews (books and CDs) in peer-reviewed journals. Moreover, seven (7) chapters were published in international books (Ivan Moody, Madalena Soveral, Paulo de Assis) and five (5) chapters in national publications. Again, these chapters show diverse interests, focussing on contemporary composition – Orthodox Church Music (Ivan Moody) and Emmanuel Nunes (Paulo de Assis) –, Performance Studies (Francisco Monteiro, Maria João Serrão) and in personal testimonies such as an interview with Martha Argerich (Madalena Soveral). Other publications include: one article in international conference proceedings with peer reviewing (Nancy Lee Harper), two electronic publications (Nancy Lee Harper, Helder Gonçalves) and twelve (12) program notes (Ivan Moody, Paulo de Assis). With a total number of 41 articles, including 8 in international peer-reviewed journals, 2011 was the most productive year of this research group until now.

2) «Jorge Peixinho's Chamber Music – Critical Edition». This research project (coordinated by Francisco Monteiro, and funded by FCT) was launched in March 2011. It is based in CESEM's branch in Porto (more specifically at the Instituto Politécnico do Porto) and one bursary (stuff) was hired in 2011.

3) Colloquia. An international Symposium around the music of Emmanuel Nunes was organized (in collaboration with Culturgest/ Fundação Caixa Geral de Depósitos, Nov. 4.-6., 2011). With 18 international speakers, this Symposium was not only the first musicological colloquia on Emmanuel Nunes, as it was the only event in Portugal celebrating his 70th Birthday. In addition, a book with his writings was launched.

A second edition of the Fórum Itinerários Musicais took place, organized by Isabel Pires (with Paula Gomes Ribeiro) — 2º Fórum Itinerários Musicais – Música e Gesto, CESEM/University Nova Lisbon and Centro Cultural de Belém (CCB), October 28.-30. 2011. Moreover, Ivan Moody and Paulo de Assis were involved in organizing committees of international colloquia: Ivan Moody in Joensuu, Finland (Fourth International Conference on Orthodox Church Music, University of Eastern Finland); Paulo de Assis (with Darla Crispin) in Ghent, Belgium (International Conference 'Experimentation in the Context of Performance Practice', Orpheus Research Centre in Music [ORCiM], 27.-28. April 2011).

4) The collaboration with Casa da Música in the form of a joint publication series centred in writings of contemporary composers was consolidated with the volume «Emmanuel Nunes – Escritos e Entrevistas» (ed. Paulo de Assis).

5) Consolidation of the Laboratório de Informática Musical (LIM), both through the Master's Programme in Music and Technology started in 2010 (11 new students were admitted in 2011) and research-oriented activities, e. g. work on "l'Expérience Acoustique" by Francois Bayle (Isabel Pires).

6) Consolidation of the group's internationalization: see Group Productivity.

Internationalization

Members of the group presented twelve (12) papers in international colloquia (with Call for papers), fourteen (14) papers in national colloquia (with Call for papers), 5 papers on international invitation, and 3 papers on national invitation.

Members of the group are active members of prestigious international boards: Ivan Moody is "Editor" of the Journal of the International Society for Orthodox Church Music, and "editorial reader" for Muzikologija (Institute of Musicology, Belgrade, Serbia); Paulo de Assis is member of the Steering Committee of the Orpheus Research Centre in Music [ORCIM], Orpheus Institute Ghent, member of the Editorial Board of that same institution, and Editorial Reader for Philosophy Study (Libertyville, Illinois, USA); Nancy Lee Harper is Editor of Tension in Performance – The ISSTIP Journal, London, Associate Editor of Piano Journal, London, Consultant to Música Hódie, Brazil, and Consultant to European Artistic Studies Review, Portugal.

The international linking protocol (established in 2009) with the Orpheus Institute Ghent (Belgium) continued. It allowed for further collaborative research endeavours and resulted in several meetings during the year.

Under the Master Programme in Music and Technology based at the LIM, some of the students were able to develop their skills at Vienna's Phonogrammarchiv and at the French Département d'Archives de l'Institut National de l'Audiovisuel.

Furthermore, members of the group composed 11 new pieces, performed over 40 concerts, and recorded 2 CDs (Ivan Moody, Nancy Lee Harper).

The book Jorge Peixinho – Escritos e Entrevistas (ed. Paulo de Assis, CESEM/Casa da Música, Porto 2010) received two international reviews: in Spain (www.mundoclasico.com, ISSN 1886-0605, 17.01.2011) and in Brazil (Revista Brasileira de Música, Rio de Janeiro, v. 24, nº 1, jan./jun. 2011, pp. 213-219).
